

Product Designer

We are looking for an experienced product designer to join us in our mission of making car purchasing a fun and hassle free experience for car buyers and dealers all over the world.

We are currently in 15 markets and are on track to becoming an international brand in the automotive industry. In this career-defining position you will be able to make a dent in the automotive universe.

We don't hire employees — we hire humans.

And, if we may boast a little, we think our humans are pretty awesome. As we grow (and boy, are we growing fast!) we're looking for more awesome humans who want to grow with us — as workers, team members, and fellow humans.

Financially strong, fast growing and modern workstyle

When you join AutoUncle, you sign up for a journey of building one of Europe's biggest consumer services. The company is financially strong and operates like a fast growing, modern company. In Product & Engineering you see this by:

- We set annual and quarterly goals using OKRs
- We care about true agility and plan epics and sprints using Scrum (no butts!)
- We believe Scrum teams should be self-organising and come up with solutions to problems and opportunities, not just execute on tasks specked in detail by a manager
- We take decisions based on data, run lots of A/B tests and have efficient ways to get rapid user feedback
- We invest in team and personal growth (retrospectives, team events, recurring 1:1s)
- We get together across teams to share what we work on and discuss the things that influence all of us such as having great development processes and maintaining a healthy code quality
- We methodically work with the company's culture at quarterly Company Meetups (virtual or physical, when it's safe)
- We understand that humans are oscillating beings and are flexible with our colleagues. We're not remote first (spending regular time together is just more fun), but encourage people to organise their work in the way that works best for them, including working remotely with regularity.

We believe the best results are produced in environments where people enjoy working. As you get started you'll quickly appreciate that the company has a clear vision and a healthy work culture where honesty, feedback, personal development and humour are the cornerstones. We optimise for working smart and have a strong commitment to the type of workplace we want at AutoUncle.

The Team

You will be joining a multidisciplinary scrum team, which has set out on a journey to become the most powerful tool for converting traffic on dealership' websites. The team currently consists of talented full stack developers, PO and scrum master and we are In addition to the scrum team you will become part of, you will also benefit from cross-team collaboration with like minded peers in UI and UX.

The position

In this position you will drive the design process for the tools that catches leads on our customers websites, and for our customer-facing interfaces and flows for handling leads and car stock. We have companies like Renault, MG, Nissan and KIA using our tools to engage consumers, in addition to a broad range of large and small dealerships in multiple countries.

On a daily basis we expect you to:

- create compelling UI designs for apps, and responsive web using Figma
- explore problems/opportunities and identify solutions in collaboration with stakeholders
- contribute to the teams objectives through problem-solving and visualising solutions in both high and low fidelity prototypes
- validate solutions qualitatively through user/customer involvement in the design process (calls and visits to end users, user testing, real world user testing etc.)
- collaborate with the UX/design team create and maintain a coherent visual style and UX patterns in the B2B services.

The You

We care deeply about bringing the right people on board in AutoUncle. What we expect from you on a personal level, you can therefore depend on in your future colleagues.

- You are first of all a naturally curious problem solver. You approach any situation with an optimistic can-do attitude and core-belief in that things always can be made better, but have a good sense of the balance between perfectionism and progression.

- You are comfortable in your own craftsmanship that comes from being structured and detail oriented while having an eye for aesthetics and good experiences.
- You are a natural team player and enjoy working in a fast paced atmosphere where people around you truly care about the experience we build for users and customers.
- You are courageous and comfortable in reaching out to people who can help you or make you smarter. Prior experience with user involvement (user testing and interviews) is an advantage.
- Preferably you have worked with software products (ex. SaaS solutions or similar), where in-depth understanding of the users journey and problem to be solved is vital.

Info & how to apply

Deadline: Now - we're having conversations ongoing

Start date: By agreement

Working hours: Full-time (37h per week).

Office: Klostergade, Aarhus C. (HQ)

Salary: Competitive, but if you're only moving for a salary bump then AutoUncle is not your destination.

Relocation: We'll support you if you need to move.

In your application, please include a few paragraphs where you tell us a bit about yourself and what interests you have in the position. Besides that we're super curious to see what you've done before: examples of past projects, pet projects, products that are now live etc. The more specific the better.

We handle all interactions discreetly and will make sure that your interest in growing is not going to create conflict elsewhere.

About AutoUncle

Most people know AutoUncle for the consumer service (native apps and web) used by millions of consumers in 15 European countries. But, new colleagues tend to get very excited when they see the technological depth there is to AutoUncle's platform (car valuations based on advanced statistics, indexing and data processing of millions of cars daily, pro dealership tools, automatic marketing platforms, automated billing and so much more).

The company is financially strong and operates like a fast growing scale-up. There is a clear company vision (driven forward with OKRs) and a healthy work culture. In combination with the company vision, we work methodically to build The Most Human Company – a place where we can be ambitious, have international impact and treat each other as always growing and oscillating human beings.

We are an extremely ambitious, energetic, and international team of currently 70 employees (and growing). We're in a constant vacuum of learning and developing ourselves and each other. You'll find Uncles and Aunts across Europe in cities like; Aarhus, Amsterdam, Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, the Rhine-Ruhr-Valley, Dublin, Cluj and Milano.
