

Tutti 1st Violin - BBC National Orchestra of Wales

BBC NOW is seeking to appoint 2 x tutti first violins. The first violin section comprises 14 players including the Leader, Lesley Hatfield.

The successful candidate will play as required by orchestration and work in accordance with the BBC/MU Orchestras Agreement. Candidates should have experience of performing in symphony orchestras and evidence through their application excellence in performance to a professional standard. BBC NOW will also consider candidates who are in the early stages of their career and can clearly show potential to fulfil the role. The ideal candidate will be an exceptional player and able to demonstrate commitment to delivering a very high standard of work.

The BBC is an equal opportunity employer and values diversity. We believe that diversity enhances and enriches the arts sector and drives innovation. We positively encourage applications from candidates from all backgrounds and, particularly, from groups who are currently under-represented in the sector.

AUDITION DETAILS

Those shortlisted for an audition will be invited to a live, in-person audition in Cardiff. These applicants will be contacted by Nick Olsen as soon as possible after the closing date.

Live, in-person auditions will be held on 13th, 20th, 21st, 27th and 28th March 2023 at BBC Hoddinott Hall, Cardiff Bay.

Excerpt booklets for live auditions and details of what to expect on the audition day will be sent to shortlisted candidates in advance.

If you have any queries, or if you require any of the audition materials in an alternative format, please contact Nick Olsen, Assistant Orchestra Manager (nick.olsen@bbc.co.uk).
