

Co-principal cello

The Oslo Philharmonic and chief conductor Klaus Mäkelä invite highly qualified candidates to apply for the position of co-principal cello.

We are looking for a dedicated orchestral musician who would like to invest in the Oslo Philharmonic and thereby make a significant contribution to the rich cultural life of the city of Oslo.

The co-principal cello performs in both the first and second chairs, together with the principal cello, sharing responsibilities on the podium.

The successful candidate needs to be a strong and experienced leader, and also a team player. They will be expected to be based in Oslo.

PROCESS

We would like to invite qualified candidates to apply with:

- CV with full details of your orchestral experience
- mobile no. and e-mail address of two referees who are professional musicians
- links to recent solo/chamber music recordings and orchestral video recording, preferably of you sitting as principal with solos
- letter explaining your motivation for applying and suitability for the job

The applications will be reviewed regularly until 1st September 2023, as we are looking to invite candidates for guest and trial weeks throughout our 23/24 season.

Qualified applicants may receive either:

- an invitation to play with the orchestra for an initial week in which the candidate will also be expected to play an audition
- or a request to provide more information
